HISTORY OF THE STATE OF RHODE ISLAND AND PROVIDENCE PLANTATIONS. By Samuel Greene Arnold. Vol. 1. 1636—1700. New York: D. Appleton & Co-1859. For sale in Newport at the

It is with sincere regret that we have been unavoidably prevented by the engrossing nature of our business, from giving such a notice of this invaluable work as it most justly merits. The time for becoming thoroughly acquainted with a volume like this is not granted to a hard working man every day, and it was our earnest desire that when we should be enabled to mention it, we might speak understandingly.

Mr. Arnold has conferred a lasting obligation upon the citizens of our State. The present generation are but sharers in the nenent which is to be extended to our children's children; and future Historians, Edtors, and Speech-makers, will gather their laurels from the soil which his labor has enriched.

Comparatively few men have the means and leisure for a thorough investigation of this subject; and many of those who have, and who share with Mr. Arnold a like interest, could scarcely be expected to devote so much lime, even in the exciting routine of foreign travel, as was required to collect and arrange the materials which he found for a work, so elaborate in design as well as minute in detail. In addition to this, he has spared no pains in the embellishment of his work with all the incident which renders a book of this kind so interesting to the general reader.

But the most beautiful and striking feature of this History-and the one which will make it most invaluable to the library of the thoughtful teader and critic, and for which our greater thanks are due its accomplished author—is its perfect reliability as to lacts and dates. The perplexing and Inhorious mathematical process by which the dates of the old style, with its irregularities, are rendered accurate-having added greatly to the labor of the faithful Historian of earlier times.

The remaining volumes of this important work will be looked for with great eagerness by all those who have had the pleasure of perusing the one already given to the world. This work will be the standard History of Rhode Island-indispensable to every well furnished library-the source o' all reliable reference in our colleges and schools.

We cannot forbear to touch upon the modest ingenuousness, evinced in the author's preface. It is only the natural, though beautiful result, of a mind more enrnest to accomplish its duty faithfully and conscientiously, than to win applause or congratulation; the last, however, we offer him with the truest deference and reverential regard; while we would humbly present him our grateful thanks in the name of all those who love and venerate the memory of one to whom we were nearly allied, and who in collecting a portion of the material which has served as an aid to Mr. Amold, often expressed his confidence that the substance of it would at some future time be embedied in a more extended and holished work.

Nicaragua Safe.

The projected raid upon Nicaragua, by the Walker gang of fillibusters, who lately ran away from Mobile in the schooner " Su san," has come to an inglirious conclusion -the adventurers getting wrecked in the bay of Hondurus on the 16th ult., and their worthless lives being all saved, they have been safely brought back to Mobile by the British steamer Basilisk.-If their various fortune, on this expedition, shall operate to cure these desperadoes of their inclination to robbery and wholesale murder, it will be well-but that is more than our fairly be expected.-Such vagabonds as Walker has the faculty of rallying to his standard, have not generally sense enough to take care of themselves, or to learn anything by experience; and they will not be likely to desist from the pursuit of their schemes of plunder and violence, till a good part of them are either hung, shot, or starved to

It seems, however, that these vermin had the sense to perceive that it would be no easy matter to effect a landing directly on the Nicaraguan coast, watched as it was by British, French, and American vesselsthough we suspect they really had precious little to fear from the latter; and so, instend of pushing down the coast to San Juan or Greytown, they were steering for a small place called Omos, and it is supposed | crooked pin annexed to the same, like wardly by land, through the State of Honduras to Niceregue.

But the wreck of the "Susan," about sixty miles from the British settlement of Beline, frustrated these brilliant calculations; and the Walker gang of marauders falling into the hands of the British, (whom it was rumored they were going to pretty near "eat up alive," provided they should undertake to interfere with the Niearaguan expedition,) were all safely brought back to Mobile by the "confounded Britishers," who are said to have treated them with breat kindness-which is a plaguey sight getter than they deserved.

LOCAL.

[From Harper's Weekly] TO NEWPORT

I love this good bid coapets town, That so close by the occan lays; This dear old fown, of fair renows Where I spent my boyish days.

I love its quaint old-fashioned streets, And the old New England face: The beauty and virtue one meets Speak of the Puritan races.

Here a Berkley used to dwell— From that rock, with paper and pen (So tradition loves to tell), He wrote for the good of men.

In the smoke of contention was lost, Of Charles the Second, the charter; And the island's peace it alrest cost. For Freedom's, thorough to bartor.

But still, high on old Trinity's steeple, On the typnest part of the vane, A crown looks down on Johanblia's people, Where in peace 'twill ever remain.

The old mill, it stands on the hill Where at ball we used to play Till the song of the whip-poor-will Hurried us in fear away.

For at midnight when the waves are high, And storm and mist her ghost may hide, Like a fleek of moonlight flitting by, "Is seen" the shadow of the Northman's bride.

And the hollow tramp is heard of him Who o'er the wave was borne.

And once was seen, through the mist so dim, With all his armor on.

But best of all the charms, oh town! To the stranger and to thee, Is the balmy breath that comes down From the great stream in the sea.

Your lanes, glens, and beaches so fair, The crackling plash of the wave on the sand, The spouting horn, when the sea breaks there, Proclaims thee, Acquidneck, the beautiful land NARRAGANSETT.

The Philharmonic Concert.

The ninth annual Concert of the Philharmonic Fociety was given at Aquidneck Hall, on Thursday evening, before an appreciative audience. The programme embraced many choice selections from the Masters of music-Hayden, Rossini and Handel, and between the grand old chorusses were scattered choice and sparkling gems of Songs and Glees.

We were particularly pleased with Mrs. Hemans' beautiful poem, set to music by Kingsley-

" Child amongst the flowers at play, And the Duett and Chorus-" Glory be to God on high"

Was chanted with fine effect.

The Song and Chorus-" The Fireman's Child," was received with applause, and

Not being a musical connoiseur, it is imposible for us to speak in detail of the several parts of the Entertainment; but we think it may be considered a decide d success. The audience evinced their gratification by repeated applause; and the Society should be more than satisfied with the results of their labor and practice.

We cannot conclude without offering a tribute of merited praise to T. W. Wood Esq., the originator and present Conductor of the Philharmonic. He combines rare musical taste with remarkable persistency of purpose and industry of application. He is daily conferring benefits upon the whole community; for the enthusiastic and ardeat apostle of Harmony is the strong for of discord, idleness, slander, and discon-in exactly in the right place, and was received with thunders of applause. It would be useless to undertake to transcribe any of the poetical and musical ideas which he hastily showered upon the audience; and equally impossible to repeat the anecdotal parts, which convulsed the house with laughter.

The Col. is ever eminently "on hand" for all occusions, and is anything rather than an illustration of the moral to his own "Bumble Bee Story" which we annex:

There is a small boy, five years of age, more or less, of a longy and phlagmatic temperament, vegetating in a neighboring City. He is a peculiar boy, of indolent habits and atrangely inventive abilities, and when visible is generally clad in a check appropriated molasses candy and abstraction

It came to pass, one mushing, tepid afternoon in August, a wearied pudestrian capled the aforesaid juvenile standing in front of the " Halls of his Ancestore," with his eyes closed, his feet close together, a dreamy, vacant smile on his lips, and a short stick, with a Waltonian bit of thread tied to the end of it, and a suggestive looking.

complicated apparatus he patiently and firmly held in his extended, childish, " red. right hand," and with a look like the Sphynz whittled down, awaited the result-The podestrian, filled with wonder, accosted him-" Johnny! what are you doing?" The juverile with no apparent change of position, slowly and emphatically respond-

" Fishing for Bumble Bees."

" What's that thing in your hand, Johnny?" resumed the eager enquirer. "A Bumble Bee catcher," murmured the child— " How on earth do you expect to catch Bumble bees with that?" cjaculated the traveller in the pursuit of knowledge under difficulties-" Why;" said the embryo philosopher with the closed optics, "dont you see that it the Bumble bee come along this way a flying and abuzzing and hit that 'ere pin, I

And for aught we know the boy is standing there now, combining in himself the blindness of Cupid, the piscatorial emprise of Sir Isaac Walton, the philosophy of Franklin, and the patience of Job.

And the moral that adorns the tale is that all men and women are "fi hing for Bumble Bees," socially, politically and sometimes religiously.

"How are the Mighty Fallen!"—It will be observed by an advertisement in our columns to-day, that the monster ox streets, has been butchered, cut up, and is Tuesday. now on sale at the Market. AGAIN POSTPONED .- Like the boy who storted to study grammar, Col. Van Zandt has again been "fetched up" by the elements. There would not have been row boats enough in town to convey the people to Aquidneck Hall, last night. The "Pome" was consequently postponed, for the second time-till next Tuesday evening-when the "Clerk of the weather" has promised a propitious state of the elements.

The steamer Plymouth Rock, of the Stonington line, was fallen in with by the Empire State Thursday morning off Lloyd's Neck, in the Sound, disabled, having broken the arm of her eccentric. The Empire State towed her to New York.

BAD PLACE BRIDGED .- W. J. Swinname, Esq., performed an act yesterday. in bridging, temporarily the "gulf" at the head of his wharf, which should shame the City Authorities, (if the thing is possible.) mo repairing the place. Had it not been for this commendable act on the part of Mr. Swinburne, the sidewalk in that locality would have been impassable most of the day.

MUSICAL INSTITUTE LECTURES .- Rev. Mr. Adlam will lecture before the Musical Institute in Music Hall, Narragansett Building, next Monday evening. We have not learned the subject of his lecture.

" THE FIRST SHALL BE LAST, AND THE LAST FIRST."-Thursday's New York mail was received here yesterday morning, and that of Wednesday, in the afternoon thrown by the detention of the boats, and the latter have resumed their regular trips, it is devoutly to be hoped there may be no further interruption.

Crimes and Caspalties.

Seibold, the man who murdered Henry is a remarkable instance of a love for music a pistol while being re-taken last Saturday, and died instantly. He leaves a wife and | amending the slave-trade laws.

A terrible tragedy occurred in New York Thursday morning. Felix Sanctes, a Spanard,stabbed his father-in-law and dangerous The Address, by Col. Van Zandt came by wounded his wife and her mother. We gather the following particulars from the New York Tribune:

Sanches was out late on Wednesday night and the family sat up for his return till 2 1-2 o'clock, a. m. As Sanches came in he brought a sword-cane with him, and immediately afterward started into the bedroom with his wife to retire. Mrs. Curnon having occasion to go into the bedroom where Sanches and her daughter were knocked at the door, but Sanches refused to admit her, and forbid his wife from doing so. As a last resort, Mrs. Curnon pushed in the door, which she had no sconer done than Sanches drew the blade from the sword age and rushed furiously upon her.

The steel penetrated the fleshy part of the left arm, inflicting a dangerous but not fatul wound. Mrs. Sanches came to aid her mother, when the desparado turned upon and stubbed her in the back or right shoul der, causing a very dangerous wound. Curtion then interfered to protect his wife and daughter, when Sanolica again raised the sized and plunged it with great force into the back of his father-in-law.

NOVEL SALUTE.-In Columbs, Ohio, a railroad man got married, and ashe returned on the evening train his fellor-railroaders determined upon giving his and his fair bride a salute. I called at your store on the 1sty of April last, and purchased one bottle to try it, and I found to my satisfaction it was the thing; if removed the scurf and the hair began to grow, it is now two or three inches in length where it was all off. I have great aith in it. I wish you to send me two bortles more by Mr. Post, the bearer of this. I don't know as any of the kind is used in this place. WOOD'S Hair Restorative.—We call the attention of all, old and young, o this wonderful preparation, which turns back to its original color, gray hair—covers the head of the ball with a luxuriant growth—removes the dundruf, fiehing, and all cutame ous captions—causes a contional flow of the natural fluids; and hence, it used as a regular dressing for the hair, will preserve its color, and keep it from falling to extreme old age, in all its natural brauts. We call then upon the bald, the grey, or discussed in scalp, to use it; and surely the young will not, as they value the flowing locks, or the witching curl, ever be without it.
